

Will I be advised of the renewal of my domain?

Article Number: 155 | Rating: 1/5 from 3 votes | Last Updated: Thu, Apr 23, 2015 at 12:07 PM

Yes, you will be advised when your domain name is up for renewal, including all domains purchased through the Domain Robot. We will start emailing you 30 days before the renewal date, and allow you the option to renew the domain straight away, wait until the renewal date, or allow the domain name to lapse. If you hold a .uk domain name, you may also receive a message from Nominet telling you of your pending expiration date. If you wish to renew the domain, you will also need to select a payment method to cover the cost of the renewals – either using a credit or debit card or by using Domain Credits. Please note that domain renewals are charged at the same rate as current new registrations, and any discounted rates you received when purchasing your domain name do not apply to your renewal. Within that 30-day renewal window, you can also set your domain to automatically renew, cancel on the renewal date, or transfer it to another account or registrar.

Posted - Thu, Mar 5, 2015 at 4:22 PM.

Online URL: <https://www.heartinternet.uk/support/article/will-i-be-advised-of-the-renewal-of-my-domain.html>